

ASTROWEENIE

brand style guide

Overview

Imaginary Fast Food

I wanted to build a concept of a hot dog stand that comes out of nowhere, and brings families and friends apart in a playful manner. Its classic 1950's-1960's era style can be nostalgic and fun in comparison to the modern style we have today.

The fun aspect of this project is that there is no kitchen that actually exists. This is a merchandising idea that can produce playful "prizes" of the stand such as punch cards, enamel pins, and figurines.

Inspiration

Nostalgia meets Retrofuturism

My inspiration of the company was more towards a 1950's/1960's retro look. I enjoy the bold colors that catch the attention of the customers. The conept of the paper hats for the workers, the smile on everyone's faces, and feeling of old school nostalgia brings a sense of family, friends, and community.

Typefaces

Playful and Clean

80pt

CHEE

Display - Wowie

The playful bounciness of the font is fun for anyone of any age. This can replicate the main wording on the tops of the menus while being its own style instead of the script font.

28pt - 36pt

Futura

Standard - Book

This style maintains the futuristic look while bringing a classic nostalgic feel. This is to show the simplicity of the body with the rest of the menu and the company for easily legibility.

Color Palette

The color palette takes advantage of the classic pastel palettes found in 1950s diners mixed with the bold colors of modern day fast food restaurants.

Icon Design

I wanted to keep the shape of a hot dog, but tried many variations with and without it.

Product Mockup

I made pins using Procreate and Figma for collectible purchases, ready for production.
